

CIRCULAR HEAD MAYOR DARYL QUILLIAM'S MESSAGE 6 MARCH 2018

It is now only 10 days until our next Relay for Life at the Smithton Recreation Ground. Both team numbers and walkers registered are a little down this year but it is still not too late to register, which you can either do online or speaking to committee members. This event is important to our community both to raise funds for cancer research and to keep our patient to treatment veil as well as making people aware of the importance of early detection of this horrible disease. With most people in our district affected either with family or friends I encourage you all to be involved with this event.

This Thursday is International Women's Day, which will be celebrated in Circular Head with the Soroptimist Awards at the recreation centre. These awards acknowledge the unsung heroines of Circular Head who inspire others through their contribution to the local community. Nominations were held earlier this year, with all entries since reviewed by the judging panel. The awards will be held from 7.30pm onwards. Best of luck to all those who have been nominated.

The Circular Head Community Wellbeing Centre project is coming along nicely with the floor for the program pool due for pouring this week. The building will start to take shape shortly and I look forward to seeing further progress here.

With our State election now complete Council will be shortly speaking to the Government to get a better understanding of the promises made relating to Circular Head during the campaign. Issues such as the Bass Highway upgrade need to be prioritised to get the best result for our district.
